Delivery Format: Instructor Led - Online

Course Overview

Strategy analysis provides the focus upon which all other business analyst efforts must align. Shortcutting strategy analysis often results in delivering solutions that are misaligned with the organization’s strategy and the expectations and needs of the business and stakeholders. This course will help you understand the criticality of defining the business need correctly and pursuing a thorough analysis of the internal and external environments of the enterprise before assisting the organization in selecting the best solution. Participants will learn how to define the business need, analyze the current state, define the future state, and make solution recommendations to move to the future state. They will also learn how to improve their strategic thinking skills and the key activities to be performed in creating a change strategy.
